What is the AtriCure TRAC–AF Registry?

(Tracking Results of Ablations to Combat Atrial Fibrillation)

AtriCure, Inc. is a medical device company providing innovative atrial fibrillation (Afib) solutions designed to produce superior outcomes that reduce the economic and social burden of atrial fibrillation.

The TRAC-AF Registry is an online tool developed to assist surgeons, cardiologists, and electrophysiologists in accurately and efficiently collecting patient specific data on ablation procedures and other interventions, as well as patient outcomes. The tool was developed in collaboration with leading ablation treaters to be consistent with Society Guidelines.

Capturing data is simple for centers without full time data collection staff, but sophisticated enough to provide meaningful data analysis. TRAC–AF is a comprehensive ablation registry that provides individual centers complete control over their data and outcomes reporting. The cost associated with the development, maintenance, and training of the registry is provided by AtriCure Scientific Affairs.

Features

1 / EASY ACCESS

Web-based and compatible with any browser on both desktop and mobile.

2 / DATA SECURE

Each center has unique logins for physicians and nurses. Centers can only view or extract their own de-identified data; not that of other individual centers.

3 / EFFICIENT

Forms are simplified for rapid entry at each contact point; pre-op, interventions, discharge, and at scheduled and unscheduled follow ups.

4 / FORMS MANAGEMENT

Completed input forms from the registry website can be printed for patient charts.

5 / STANDARDIZED REPORTING

Standardized outcomes reports by Afib classification, index procedure and by length of follow up. Data can be queried and exported for patient follow-up assessment, analysis, publication, and internal training with simple click of a button.
